

BIOGRAPHY

LeAnn Sanderson
Vice President, Corporate Communications

LeAnn Sanderson has been with OAA since 2013. She has 20 years of communications and event planning experience in various industries. LeAnn moved to Oklahoma from Minnesota, where she held project management and leadership roles and worked alongside top executives at a large medical component and device manufacturing company. She most enjoyed finding fun, creative ways to engage over 400 team members in personal growth, work pride and community involvement.

LeAnn Sanderson's role at OAA is to provide consistent messaging and timely communications through events, training sessions, member meetings, printed and digital materials. She is responsible for OAA's website, social media, app and texting platforms as well as the monthly member newsletter.

LeAnn is an entrepreneur at heart and owned her own event planning business for several years. She is also a public speaker and belongs to OKC Early Risers Toastmasters. She spent years traveling the upper Midwest on a mission to stop the abduction and exploitation of children as Sr. Speaker for the Jacob Wetterling Resource Center. LeAnn is a volunteer and Go Red Ambassador with the American Heart Association, and has been a member of the executive leadership team for the AHA Heart Walk. She and her family also enjoy sponsoring cookouts for the families at OK Kids Korral in Oklahoma City.

LeAnn loves meeting new people and exploring Oklahoma City. She enjoys being on the water and in the sun, live music, especially small local bands, movies and just being with her four children.
